Company History

Managing Director, Roger Aldons, has been involved in international trading since 1980, when he founded his former firm, Access International Trading, in which he was one of two partners until 31st October, 1992, when the partnership was dissolved.

The business trading as Access Downunder commenced on 1st November, 1992, and in addition to dealing in many of the products handled by his former firm, the new company has developed its own "Monash" brand label for the export market. Export of products under the "Monash" label were initially made to Taiwan, Sri Lanka and Mauritius, and the Company is now looking to expand to new markets worldwide, but especially in South East Asia.

Access Downunder holds licences to export dried fruits and honey.

Business Strength

Access Downunder has a small enthusiastic band of employees who are able to respond quickly to customer requests. We are able to source Australian processed food and household products and consolidate full container loads of single or assorted product lines in retail, foodservice/catering, portion control or industrial packs for export worldwide. We are able to negotiate with manufacturers/producers to obtain supplies of products under private labels (Buyers' brands) and will be adding more products to the current range of products available under our own "Monash" brand label. Trial orders of LCL shipments would be welcome.
